HOLIDAY GREETINGS TO FBIS EMPLOYEES

Best holiday wishes to you and your families, and I wish you a happy new year and best of luck for 1986. Once again, in 1985, FBIS did a fine job in covering the foreign media for the foreign affairs community, and provided an extensive array of special services to the Agency and the Intelligence Community. I firmly believe that despite our security problems of the past year the reputation of FBIS has never been higher. And the reason for that is the fine work of all the individuals in FBIS. I believe the future will see an even more active and productive FBIS, and I only regret that because of my impending retirement I won't be here to see it. I wish you all happiness and good health in the years ahead.
